CO-ED A CAPPELLA GROUP

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON, DC

BIOGRAPHY

The Troubadours - affectionately known as "The Troubs" - is a co-ed a cappella group based at The George Washington University in the heart of our nation's capital. Founded in 1925, generations of Troubadours have given countless performances for adoring fans worldwide. The original "Traveling Troubadours" toured internationally to entertain U.S. military personnel on remote overseas bases, and the organization has since developed into a modern, student-run a cappella troupe. The Troubs continue to perform original arrangements of songs from every conceivable genre, and their talent and unique sound has earned high praise from industry experts and community members alike.

MOST RECENT REVIEW

“The Troubadours of George Washington University have an awesome track on their hands with Locked Out of Heaven. I call it poppin’ fresh a cappella. The arrangement is full of fun and exciting hooks. The percussion and rhythm section lock into the pocket with a driving beat — seriously engaging and body moving. I cranked it up to 11 and danced my winter blues away.”

-TeKay, Marketing Director at The Recorded A Cappella Review Board
